

Individual Assignment

Throughout this project, my primary focus was on front-end development, specifically crafting pages such as marketing, budget, and attendance. Additionally, I took on the task of designing the app logo. Leveraging Figma as my primary design tool, I meticulously refined and implemented visual elements to enhance user experience and interface aesthetics. Despite encountering obstacles, particularly in learning React for development purposes, I persisted in acquiring the necessary skills to contribute effectively to the project.

Reflecting on my initial assessment from last fall, I can confidently say that I applied and expanded upon the skills identified during that evaluation. Engaging in front-end development further honed my proficiency in design tools like Figma while also presenting an opportunity to delve into React, adding a valuable skill to my repertoire. Through this experience, I not only gained technical expertise but also cultivated adaptability and problem-solving abilities when faced with challenges such as learning a new framework. Despite the obstacles, successfully completing my assigned tasks and witnessing tangible progress within the project served as significant milestones and sources of personal fulfilment.

As a group, we successfully developed and launched our event management app, EventReady. This accomplishment required coordinated efforts from each member, emphasizing the importance of accountability and fulfilling individual responsibilities. Throughout this process, I learned that effective communication and commitment to meeting deadlines are essential aspects of successful teamwork. Kevin, in particular, deserves special recognition for his exemplary leadership as our project manager. His patience, organization, and dedication played a pivotal role in guiding our team towards the project's completion.

Reflecting on our teamwork, while we achieved our objectives, there were areas where we could have improved. Ensuring consistent communication and distribution of tasks could have enhanced our efficiency further. However, despite these challenges, our collective efforts were instrumental in realizing the app's development. Comparatively, each teammate contributed valuable skills and insights to the project, with everyone demonstrating a commitment to its success. Kevin's exceptional leadership and dedication undoubtedly facilitated our progress and deserve acknowledgment for his significant role in the project's success.